US Drinking Water Quality - Cause for Concern?

From 2004 to 2009, an estimated 49 million people in the United States consumed drinking water in violation of the federal Safe Drinking Water Act.

New York Times reports have given rise to water quality concerns, saying that "more than 20 percent of the nation's water treatment systems have violated key provisions of the Safe Drinking Water Act over the last five years"... Read complete article here

Valentine's Day Brain Candy - Did you know?

On February 14, 270 AD, Roman Emperor Claudius II (also known as Claudius the cruel) beheaded a priest named Valentine for performing marriage ceremonies. Claudius II had outlawed marriages when Roman men began refusing to go to war in order to stay with their wives. It wasn't until 1537 that St. Valentine's day was declared an official holiday.
