

Dear Praying Friends,

We have made it back to the states. We arrived this past Friday, early morning. We are getting caught up on our sleep after the last long week of packing up in PNG and then the long flights traveling.

Our trip home went very good with no problems at all. There were several things we were concerned about along the way that could of happened, but didn't. We could not have asked for things to go smoother or for better seats on all of our flights. It was a long time traveling, (three days straight by our bodies clock), but we arrived in pretty good condition for such a long trip.

We know many of you were praying. The Lord truly took care of us as we traveled.

Our plans for the next couple of weeks are to rest for a week or so here in Michigan with Joy's parents and then head to Pennsylvania to see Duane's family for a couple of days.

With our international travel over, now we will be starting our process of "domestic" travel.

Over the next year we plan to do a lot of traveling around visiting with our churches and friends.

Thank you so much for praying for us, it has and does mean so much.

We will let you know how things are going in our "partnership development" time here.

In Christ,

Duane and Joy Lauver
