

A community of believers, committed to Jesus Christ.

First Lady Pamela Ogletree

Pamela Ogletree is a sincere and inspiring woman who is always excited about the move of God. Her caring nature reflects an encouraging personality that warms the hearts of those who come in contact with her. She is a firm believer in Jesus Christ as a redeemer, rescuer and restorer regardless of past or present situations. Her message is one of God's love and grace and His desire to be close to all of His children.

Pamela often testifies of how she had minimal church exposure growing up. It wasn't until the mid 1980's when she found a tract in the laundry room of her apartments that she gave her life to Christ. Kneeling beside her bed that night and all alone, she tells of how her conviction came with a true understanding of sin and who God really is. Since then it has been her passion to evangelize others into that same knowledge.

First Lady Pamela became aggressive in her faith walk by actively serving in ministry. She eventually became the co-director of new members at Brookhollow Baptist Church which had a church membership of over 8,000 at that time. In February 2000, Pamela co-founded New Hope Community Church with her husband, Dr. Ethan W. Ogletree Sr., having its first service on June 4th of that same year. Pastor and First Lady Ogletree led the church's growth from 19 members meeting in their living room, to 200 members meeting at Shotwell Middle School to now over 1,000 members meeting in their current facility.

First Lady Pamela, current Director of Education and Women's Ministries at New Hope, accepts and embraces the Holy Spirit's gift of teaching and making God's word exciting and practical for life transformation. With a favorite saying of "No one knows a sista' like a sista'," Pamela is the visionary of New Hope's annual Re-Nu Women's Revival. The revival is designed to encourage all women to discover their true purpose and destiny in Christ through dynamic speakers and inspirational entertainment.

Pamela holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Psychology from the University of Houston and a Masters of Education from Prairie View A&M University. She is a licensed professional counselor and is in private practice with Therapeutic Behavioral Health Associates specializing in Christian Counseling. Prior to opening her practice, Pamela served in education for fifteen years as a special education teacher and school counselor.

Pamela believes that the essence of a fruitful spiritual life is constant growth and change. "Without change there is no growth. Constantly changing equals being constantly fruitful." Pamela and Dr. Ogletree reside in Houston, Texas with their two sons.
