

Linda Vogt

Linda has a bachelor's degree in journalism from the University of Missouri, Columbia, and master's degree in environmental studies from the University of Illinois, Springfield.

She worked as an environmental specialist for the Missouri Department of Natural Resources for 16 years. She is retired.

She has been an active volunteer on behalf of Lewis and Clark. She is coordinating a volunteer effort to remove invasive plant species at Clark's Hill/Norton State Historic Site.

She was drawn to the Lewis and Clark story through—what else?—Stephen Ambrose's book, Undaunted Courage. She enjoys learning about the history of the expedition and its members as well as the westward expansion of that time.
