

With A New Lens: Intersectional Oppression Requires Intersectional Liberation

Keadrick Peters, PhD

This speech aims to ignite the legacy of transformational change by fostering a global community of intersectional human allies. Through the lens of Intersectional Oppression Requires Intersectional Liberation, the audience is invited to envision a society where racism and patriarchy are dismantled with intersectionality at its core. Aligned with the TEDxBowieStateUniversity theme of "Legacy Ignited: Fueling the Torchbearers of Transformational Change," this message inspires individuals to embrace intersectionality and take meaningful action. During the interactive speech, participants will engage in an intersectionality activity demonstrating the urgency to implement this lens to better grapple with inequality. The audience's takeaway will include an intersectionality global call to action for humanity. Within 48 hours of the speech, everyone will complete a self-inventory to see how to become an intersectional human ally.