Unravelling the Myths About the Shee'ah

Introduction

Indeed, all praise is due to Allaah, we thank Him and from seek His help and forgiveness. We also seek refuge in Allaah from the evils of our souls and from our evil actions. I bear witness that there is no god worthy of worship except Allaah and I bear witness that Muhammad is His servant and messenger.¹ The best speech is the Book of Allah and the best way is the way of Muhammad (sallallaahu alayhi wasallam). The worst of affairs are the innovations (into the religion of Islaam), because every innovation is heresy, every heresy is deviation and every deviation leads to the hellfire.

This humble study is for the sincere people that are seeking the truth. It is not intended to be an attack on a person’s identity, or on the culture that a person happens to be born into without full knowledge, or what one thought was Islaam without access to the full facts. Rather, it hopes to outline some of the beliefs of the Sh'ee'ah and show how they are not in line with Islaam as presented in the Qur’aan, Sunnah (way) of Muhammad (sallallaahu alayhi wassallam) or the understandings of the early generations of righteous Muslims. Please look at the evidence presented fairly as we do feel the need to resort to bringing about conflicts with the ignorant, facts have merely been presented and it is for the sincere reader to decide.

Unfortunately, due to the secretive manner of the ‘knowledgable’ amongst the Shee’ah, many people are not aware of their actual beliefs. Muslims are not conscious of the differences between Islaam and the Shee’ah belief. Most Shee’ah writings revolve around emotional issues of love for the Prophet’s family and people believe that the Shee’ah belief is just this. However, they can still be Muslims and love the family of the Prophet in the way that they deserve without being Shee’ah.
In our call to Tawheed, we are faced with many Shee’ah people who are not familiar with what the majority of their own scholars have invented which have thus rendered the Shee’ah belief system as heretical, contrary to the understanding of the family and companions of the Prophet and thus outside the fold of Islaam. We repeat that we are not trying to offend the average Shee’ah, who may not even practice Islaam, but the truth of what will be presented in this short work should be assessed fairly and unemotionally.

The religious beliefs and practices of extremist Shee’ah segregate them from Islaam, the Shee’ah have specific beliefs about Allaah and His attributes, the Prophets, the mission and call of Prophet Muhammad (sallallaahu alayhi wassallam) and even the Qur’aan. A short history of the Shee’ah will be detailed with all the sources quoted and referenced for those who wish to pursue further research and study, followed by a point by point analysis of the main Shee’ah concepts. The evidence concealed in the books of Shee’ah scholars themselves will be analyzed so as to be unbiased and to demonstrate that the family of the Prophet Muhammad (sallallaahu alayhi wasallam) followed the truth of the Qur’aan and Sunnah and never cursed the Sahaabah (Companions of Muhammad) and further dismissed the extreme claims of those Shee’ah who came much later.

2 A famous and respected Shee’ee scholar from Najaf, Mirza Husayn Ibn Muhammad at-Tabarsee wrote Fasl al-Khitaab fee Ithbaat Tahreef Kitaab Rabb al-Arbaab (A Decisive Statement Concerning Proof of the Alteration of the Lord of Lord’s Book). Written in 1865 CE, when the book was later to be discovered by the Orientalists and Christian missionaries they were delighted to have found a book that furthered their weak and vain attempts to discredit Islaam. In the book, Tabarsee compiled hundreds of texts from Shee’ah scholars from different ages which allege that the Qur’aan is incomplete. (See: Muhibbuddeen al-Khateeb, Khutoot al-‘Areedah, (Canada: Majlis ul-Haqq, 1983, 1st edition), p.4)

For example, these quotes from the family of the Prophet Muhammad (sallallaahu alayhi wasallam) will reveal the contradictory practice of cursing the Companions of the Prophet Muhammad and hating most of the Companions which is done by the extreme Shee’ah.

The term ‘Shee’ah’ (plural: Shiya’) comes from the Arabic verb ‘Shaa’a’ which means to spread, hence ‘Shee’ah’ means a faction or sect and is used with that meaning in the Qur’aan in both singular and plural forms many times. For example:
Then We will certainly drag out from ever sect (Shee’ah) those who were most obstinate in their rebellion against Allaah, Most Gracious

{Maryam: 69}

As for those who divide their religion and break up into sects (Shiya’) you have no part in them in the least. Their affairs are with Allaah, He will tell them the truth of what they did in the end

{al-An’aam: 159}

The term ‘Shee’ab’ was first used to describe the followers of the fourth rightly guided Caliph, ‘Ali ibn Abee Taalib, may Allaah be pleased with him, and the term came to be applied to those who simply loved and greatly respected the family of the Prophet Muhammad. However, after ‘Ali’s death, some of his followers retained the name exclusively and they began to rapidly deteriorate in morals, creed and belief.
This was marked by their rejection of Zayd Ibn ‘Ali\(^3\) because he did not accept their innovated concepts of not recognizing the three Caliphs, Aboo Bakr, ‘Umar ibn al-Khattaab and ‘Uthmaan ibn Affaan and anyone who did not uphold the belief that ‘Ali should have been the first Caliph. Even according a \textit{Shee’ee} historian, Mirza Taqee Khaan, Zayd was asked about Aboo Bakr and ‘Umar, to which he replied: “I always speak well of them and I have never heard any members of the family of the Prophet speak badly of them. They have never persecuted us nor did they maltreat any other citizen. Both of them strictly followed the Qur’aan and \textit{Sunnah} of the Prophet (\textit{sallallaahu alayhi wassallam}).”\(^4\)

\(^{3}\) Those \textit{Shee’ah} in this context meaning those who had great respect for the family of the Prophet and followed Zayd were/are known as the \textit{Zaydiyyah}. They have survived in Yemen and it remains the major school of thought in Yemen. The sect is based on some \textit{Mu’tazilah} ideas and they rejected mysticism. In their worship they have certain features in common with other \textit{Shee’ah} such as: the addition of “\textit{Hayya ilaa Khayr al-Aa’maal}” (\textit{Come to the best of Actions}) in their call to prayer and the prohibition of meat killed by non-Muslims. In their family law they prohibit marriage with Christians and Jews, however they do not allow \textit{Mu’tah} (temporary marriage) alike other \textit{Shee’ah}. They also recognize the three righteous Caliphs before ‘Ali and do not consider the majority of the \textit{Sahaabah} as apostates. (See: \textit{Taareekh ul-Madhaahib}; Volume 2, p.479-516 and \textit{Encyclopedia of Islam}, p.631-632)

However those people who were led by their desires did not accept what Zayd said thus he stated: “These people have left us and formed a separate group of their own...they got rid of old affiliations and scrambled up a new group. Thus from today they will be called the Raafidah.”

These new Shie’ah over praised ‘Ali ibn Abee Taalib, some even saying that he was/is Allaah incarnate and claimed that Aboo Bakr and ‘Umar became apostates along with all the companions except three to seven of them! The Raafidah (plural: Rawaafid) also mixed in other aspects which bolstered their claims and thus they began to integrate symbols of hatred for the Sahaabah into their religion.

6‘Abdullaah ibn Saba, a Yemeni Jew, was the first in history to begin calling to the worship of ‘Ali Ibn Abee Taalib. Abdullaah ibn Saba became a Muslim during the Khilaafah of ‘Uthmaan Ibn Affaan. Ibn Saba surrounded himself with the followers of ‘Ali Ibn Abee Taalib and played a significant role in the uprising which started in Koofah amongst ‘Ali’s supporters and flared up in Egypt. From this rebellion, rebels were sent to Madeenah in 656 CE. They surrounded the house of ‘Uthmaan, stormed the house and killed him, may Allaah be pleased with him. Ibn Saba and his cohorts clashed with the forces of the Sahaabah leading to the Battle of the Camel outside Basra in which Talhah and az-Zubayr, may Allaah be pleased with them, were killed along with many other Muslims. Ibn Saba was banished to ‘Iraaq where ‘Ali and his followers were based. The rest of Ibn Saba’s band of followers that claimed that Ali was Allaah were ordered by Ali to be executed by burning. [Abu’l-Hasan al-‘Ash’aree, Maqaalaat ul-Islamiyyeen (Maktabh an-Nahdah al-Misriyyah; 2nd edition, 1961, Vol. 1) pp.50-51, 58-59]

Some modern-day Shie’ah have denied the existence of Ibn Saba yet all of the early Muslim scholars make reference to him and even Shie’ah scholars admit to his presence. For example the Shie’ah scholars such as Imaam Kaashee in his book ar-Rijaal; Aboo Muhammad al-Hasan ibn Yahyaa an-Nawbakhtee, a major Shie’ah theologian in his book Firaaq ush-Shie’ah and ar-Rawdat us-Safa by a Shee’ee historian, all mention Ibn Saba. These three books are exclusively Shie’ah scholarly books. The Muslim scholars and historians who mention Ibn Saba were Ibn Jareer at-Tabaree in his famous Taareekh ut-Tabaree which contains all the sources regarding ‘Abdullaah Ibn Saba and the great Muslim historians Ibn ul-Atheer and Ibn Katheer mention Ibn Saba. Even the ‘rationalist’ historian Ibn Khaldoon mentions Ibn Saba.
Henceforth, Persia, present day ‘Iraan, became important for the Shee’ah due to al-Husayn Ibn ‘Ali, may Allaah be pleased with him, marrying Shahrabaanoo the daughter of the Persian ruler Yezdeghird the third. This has been used by the Raafidah up to this day to denote a kind of special status about Persia/’Iraan, and that the Prophet’s bloodline runs through ‘Iraan. Furthermore, Persian companions of the Prophet were raised and extolled such as Salmaan al-Faarisee and Aboo Tharr al-Ghifaaree, may Allaah be pleased with them both. Persian characters from Islamic history known for their treachery were also respected, such as Aboo Lu’Lu, the Persian slave who killed the second Caliph ‘Umar Ibn al-Khattaab, may Allaah be pleased with him. Even to this day in ‘Iraan there is supposedly a tomb and shrine dedicated to Aboo Lu’Lu.

Furthermore, the Rawaaafid mingled in parts of the established Persian religion of Zorastrianism into their religion. This is attested to the fact that in the religion of Zoroaster the rulership must be passed down through a lineage in order for the rulership to be sanctioned as suitable, identical to the religion of the Rawaaafid whereby the Imaams follow each other consecutively. This also explains why Musavi al-Khomaynee (Khomeini) considered the Persian day of celebration known as ‘Nauraz’ (Persian News Years Day) a day on which fasting is recommended. Furthermore, this accounts for why it was stipulated in the constitution of the ‘Iraanian ‘Islamic’ Republic endorsed by Khomaynee that the head of state must be of pure Persian ancestry and origin.

In Persia, these Rawaafid beliefs, which also emphasized ‘twelve Imaams,’ were established in 1502 CE by the Safawid empire who claimed descent from the seventh Imaam, Moosaa al-Kaathim. On his ascension, the founder of the Safawid state, Shaah Ismaa’eeel declared Shee’ahism the state religion of Persia. Other areas where the Raafidah/Twelver Shee’ah can be found are in ‘Iraaq, Lebanon, India, Kuwait and East Africa. Thus, from now on in this work when we

a) The Shee’ah give their Imaams the divine attributes of infallibility. Muhammad Rida al-Muzaffar mentions in his book Faith of Shia Islam, “We believe that, like the Prophet, an Imaam must be infallible, that is to say incapable of making errors or doing wrong, either inwardly or outwardly, from his birth to his death, either intentionally or unintentionally because the Imaams are the preservers of Islaam and it is under their protection.”11

b) The Shee’ah claim that their Imaams have knowledge of the past, present, the future and the unseen, the ability to change destiny and maintain control over creation. Al-Muzaffar continues: “…the Imaam is able to understand

10 Shee’ah also claim to follow what has been known as the ‘Jaa’fari school,’ named after Jaa’far as-Saadiq, may Allaah have mercy on him. However, Jaa’far left behind no evidence of having compiled a school in Islamic jurisprudence. This ‘school of thought’ has been used by modernist Muslims such as Ikhwaan ul-Muslimeen (The Muslim Brotherhood) and other modernists to vainly attempt to unite and bring the extremist Shee’ah into the fold of Muslim acceptance.
information about anything, anywhere and at any time.”\textsuperscript{12} The so called ‘Roobullaah’ (spirit of Allaah) and ‘Aaytullaah’ (Sign of Allaah) Musavi al-Khomaynee said: “Certainly the Imaam has a dignified station, a lofty rank, a creational Caliphate and a sovereignty and mastery over all atoms of creation. \textit{It is definitely a basic belief in our school of thought, that our Imaams occupy a station unattainable by either an angel of the highest rank or a major Prophet.”}\textsuperscript{13}

c) The \textit{Shee’ah} equivalent to the Muslim scholar al-Bukhaaree, al-Kulaynee dedicated a special chapter in his book titles: “Surely People Have No Truth Except What Came From The Imaams and Everything Which Did Not Come From Them Is False.”\textsuperscript{14} According to al-Khomaynee the book \textit{al-Kaafee}\textsuperscript{15} is considered by

All of these concepts oppose the Qur’aan:

Certainly with Allaah is full knowledge and He is acquainted with all things”

{Luqmaan (31): 34}

Allaah, Most High, does not reveal the unseen matters except to whoever Allaah chooses from the Prophets and Messengers, as Allaah said. Allaah does not reveal information about the unseen realms to others, only Prophets, Messengers and angels. The Qur’aan does not mention that ‘Imaams’ are capable of acquiring secret hidden esoteric knowledge from the unseen world.
A contemporary Muslim scholar, Shaykh Saalih bin Fawzaan al-Fawzaan writes: “…therefore, anyone who claims the knowledge of the unseen by any means is a liar and a Kaafir (disbeliever), whether he claims such a phenomena by palm-reading, cup reading, divining, sorcery, astrology or otherwise.”

Shaykh Saalih al-Fawzaan further notes: “A person who claims knowledge of the unseen and the person who believes him is a Mushrik (polytheist) and a disbeliever because he claims to share the knowledge which belongs exclusively to Allaah.”

It is also very arrogant for a normal man to emerge and call himself “Roohullaah” (the Spirit of Allaah) or “Aayaatullaah” (Sign of Allaah)!

The Prophet Muhammad (sallallaahu alayhi wassallam) never asked people to call him by such names neither did any of the Prophets or Messengers. So how can a man decide from his own desires that people should call him the “Spirit of Allaah!?.” Is this from Islaam? If one is honest then this is not from Islaam. The Qur’aan mentions how people should worship Allaah, Most High:

Indeed, those who you call upon besides Allaah are only servants (creations) like you

{al-A’raaf (7): 194}

And (yet) among the people are those who take other than Allaah as equals (to Him). They love them as they should love Allaah. But those who believe are stronger in their love for Allaah

{al-Baqarah (2): 165}

righteous work and not associate in the worship of his Lord anyone” \{al-Kahf (18): 110\}

The Qur’aan is replete of verses that highlight that people should not associate other people or intercessors in their worship of Allaah. This concept of the Shee’ah is the decisive line that takes them outside of Islaam.

Furthermore, the polytheistic concept of making humans equals or shares in Allaah’s attributes led to other religions emerging out of Shee’ahism. For example, the Nusayrees emerged in the tenth century CE claiming that ‘Ali Ibn Abee Taalib was a manifestation of Allaah. A breakaway Shee’ah sect of the Ibn Nusayr claimed that he was the door to the 'hidden Imaam,' but was rejected by the 'Alids and the majority of the Imaamee Twelver Rawaaafid Shee’ah. However, he gathered a following and a sect evolved in northern Syria claiming that ‘Ali was the incarnation of Allaah. (Shahrastani, al-Mihal wa’n-Nihal, Volume 2, pp. 143 -145). The Nusayrees borrowed from Christianity the festivals of Christmas and Easter along with other pagan forms involving the worship of heavenly bodies. [See: Philip K. Hitti, History of the Arabs (London: Macmillan Press, 10th edition, 1970), pp. 448-449] This sect was declared pagan even by the Rawaaafid Twelver Shee’ah theologians of the past. However, al-Khomaynee for political reasons included them among the main body of Shee’ah. (See: The Mirage in Iran, p. 26) eleventh century CE known as the Druze also believed that the Faatimid Shee’ee Caliph, al-Haakim bi-Amrillaah (996 – 1021 CE), was the last incarnate.

c) Kitaab29 by Saalim bin Qays ul-‘Amree mentions that all of the companions except four of them, became apostates after the death of Prophet Muhammad.

However the refutation of these Shhee’ah beliefs can come from other Shhee’ah books themselves which attest to the veracity of loving the Sahaabah.

1. Even al-Majlisee narrated a tradition from at-Toosee stating that ‘Ali Ibn Abee Taalib told his companions: “I advise you not to tease the companions of the Prophet, because they are the companions of your Prophet. They are the companions of those who neither introduced any innovation into the faith nor did they honour any innovators. Yes, this is the advice of the Prophet about them.”

2. Jaa’far the son of Baaqir, sometimes known as ‘as-Saadiq,’ (the truthful): “The companions of the Prophet (sallallahu alayhi wassallam) numbered twelve thousand. Eight thousand from Madeenah, two thousand from Makkah and two thousand from Talakas. None of them was a Qadree, a Marharbee, a Harooree or a Mu’tazilee. None of them held an opinion that clashed with the established tenets of the Qur’aan and Sunnah…they spent their nights weeping and praying,

“Oh Allaah take way our lives before we eat bread”.”

3. The truth of what ‘Ali taught about the companions can also be found when one goes through the books of the Shee’ah which are not available for the mass of Shee’ah to read. He acknowledged the Caliphate and superiority of Aboo Bakr in a letter: “Allaah has chosen many people from among the Muslims to approve extend the divine mission. Allaah and His messenger have conferred the highest status on the first two Caliphs, Aboo Bakr and ‘Umar. I swear by my own life that they occupy the greatest position in the fold of Islaam. May Allaah have mercy upon them, for they suffered intensely for the sake of Islaam. May

Allaah compensate them for their sacrifices.”\(^3\)

Furthermore, the book Nahj ul-Balaghaa which is attributed to ‘Ali Ibn Abeel Taalib contains many sermons in praise of the companions such as Aboo Bakr and ‘Umar. A further tradition states that when ‘Umar died, may Allaah be pleased with him, ‘Ali asked Allaah to bless him and have peace in him saying, “There is no other person on earth with whose deeds I desire to merge with my deeds, except the man in this coffin.”\(^4\) Moreover, it is even found in a Shee’ah book that ‘Ali said, “The best men in the community after the Prophet are Aboo Bakr and ‘Umar.”\(^5\)

Ihsan Ilahi Zaheer also notes that this tradition is recorded by Muslim scholars such as al-Haakim in al-Mustadrak; adh-Dhahabi in at-Talkhees, Musnad of Imaam Ahmad ibn Hanbal, Tabaqaat of Ibn Sa'd, with similar traditions in Bukhaaree and Muslim.

Prophet Muhammad (sallallaahu alayhi wasallam). The Muslims thus follow the guidance and recommendation of the Prophet (sallallaahu alayhi wasallam) at Ghadir Khum\(^{36}\) in the hadeeth in Saheeh Muslim: “I adjure you by Allaah with regard to my household (Ahl il-Bayt).”

Shaykh Saalih bin Fawzaan al-Fawzaan (hafidhahullaah) states: “Hence, Ahlus-Sunnah (the Muslims that follow the Sunnah) love and honour them as they deserve on the condition that the members of his household must follow the Sunnah and remain steadfast on the Deen. Just like their predecessors, such as al-Abbaas and his sons, and ‘Alee and his sons did. As for those of them who oppose the Sunnah and do not remain steadfast on the Deen, no love or honour should be extended to them, even though they belong to the household of the Prophet. The stance of the Ahl us-Sunnah regarding the household of the Prophet is characterised by moderation and fairness. They only love the pious and righteous amongst them, and censure and disown those of them who contradict the Sunnah and deviate from the Deen even though they are members of the Prophet’s household. Being a member of the household of the Prophet, or a relative of his, does not benefit him a thing until he adheres to the Deen of Allaah…Ahl us-Sunnah disown the ways and methodology of the Rawaafid who exceed the limits of revering the Prophet’s household and impute them with infallibility. They also disown the methods of the Nawaasib who treat with enmity the pious members of the Prophet’s household, and try to find faults in them. Ahl us-Sunnah censure the methods of the people of Bid’ah and superstitions who seek a means of nearness to Allaah through the Prophet’s household, and take them as gods beside Allaah.”

Originally the term ‘Ahl ul-Bayt,’ was applied to all the wives of the Prophet Muhammad, and later came to be extended to their children, relatives and friends. In the Qur’aan the term ‘Ahl’ is used to denote the wives of the Prophets, Ibraaheem (in Soorah Hood: 71-74) and Moosaa (in Soorat ul-Qasas: 30), peace be upon them.

The SHEE’AH usually quote the following translation of the meaning of the AAYAH:

“Allaah intends only to remove from you the impurity (of sin) Oh people of the (Prophet’s) household, and to purify you with purification.”

{al-Ahzaab (33): 33}

The Muslim scholars Ibn Katheer, Ibn Abee Haatim, Ibn Asaakir and Ibn Marwiya Sa’eed report from Ibn Abbaas that this verse was addressed to the wives of the Prophet. Ash-Shakaanee reports that Ibn Abbaas and his students ‘Ataa ibn Abee Rabaah, ‘Ikrimah, Sa’eed ibn Jubayr, Muqaatil and Kalibee all report that that ‘Ahl ul-Bayt’ refers to the wives of the Prophet and his place of residence in this context. SHEE’AH scholars such as al-Qummee, Kashaanee in his Minhajus-Saadiqeen also express similar views that ‘Ahlul’

38 Ibn Abbaas was a cousin of the Prophet Muhammad and one of his major companions. The Prophet Muhammad gave him the title “Turjumaan ul-Qur’aan” meaning the one who interprets the Qur’aan. Thus, his commentary of the Qur’aan is considered by Muslims to be the most authoritative after that of the Prophet himself. Caliph ‘Alee made Ibn Abbaas his ‘Ameer over the city of Basrah. (Tareekh ul-Umam wa’l-Mulook; Volume 5, p.224) refers to wives. Yet, the Raafidah Shee’ah in their understandings of the term ‘Ahl ul-Bayt’ restrict it to apply only to ‘Alee, Faatimah, Hasan and Husayn and have neglected many of the prominent Sahaabiyaat such as the noble mother of the believers Aa’ishah (radi Allaahu anha). The Prophet Muhammad (sallallaahu alayhi wassallam) married his daughter Ruqqayah to ‘Uthmaan (radi Allaahu ‘anhu) and when Ruqqayah died (radi Allaah ‘anha) the Prophet married his second daughter Umm Kulthum (radi Allaahu ‘anha) to Uthmaan.

But did the Abl ul-Bayt hate the Sahaabah and insult them or abuse them? Or did they love the Sahaabah, help them and consult them?

The fact is that books written even by Shee’ah scholars show that the Abl ul-Bayt loved the Sahaabah and we shall look at these quotes from the Shee’ah sources so as not to be biased. This will also reveal the contradictions of those who curse the companions when their own Shee’ah scholars are narrating tradtions from the Abl ul-Bayt in praise of the companions.
The most visible demonstration of this love is that the Ahl ul-Bayt named their children after Aboo Bakr and ‘Umar. This was an indication of their love and reverence for the companions. ‘Alee ibn Abee Taalib named one of his sons ‘Umar, who was born from ‘Alee’s wife Umm Habeeb Bint Rabee’ah Aalykreeyah. This is reported from the Shee’ah scholars such as Isfahaanee, Mufeed, Ya’qoobe, Majlisee and in the book Sabeeh ul-Fusool. Mufeed writes under the chapter ‘The Names and Number of ‘Alee’s Children,’ “The number of sons and daughters of ‘Ameer ul-Mu’mineen (‘Alee) was twenty seven, 1 – Hasan, 2 – Husayn, 6 – ‘Umar, 7 – Ruqqayah – They were twins and their mother was Umm Habeeb bint Rabee’ah.”

Ya’qoobee writes, “The number of his sons was fourteen; Hasan, Husayn and Muhsin who died very young, his mother was Faatimah, the daughter of the Messenger of Allaah…and ‘Umar whose mother was Umm Habeeb Bint Alaykreeyah.”

40 Isfahaanee, Taareekh ul-Ya’qoobe (Vol. 2, p.213) and Maqaatil ut-Taalibeen (Beirut: p. 84)
Majlisee writes, “‘Umar Ibn ‘Ali was one of those who were martyred along with Husayn in Karbala. His mother was Umm ul-Baneen Bint ul-Haza al-Kalaybeeyah.”

After ‘Alee, his son Husayn also named one of his sons after ‘Umar out of love and respect for ‘Umar. Mufeed wrote chapter on ‘The Children of Husayn Ibn ‘Alee, Their Number and Their Names.’ “The sons and daughters of Husayn Ibn ‘Alee numbered fifteen: 1 – Zayd, 5 – ‘Umar, 6 – Qaasim, 7 – ‘Abdullaah. They were all born from Umm Wald.”

‘Alee ibn Husayn (Zayn al-‘Aabideen) also named one of his sons after ‘Umar ibn al-Khattaab as the Shee’ah scholars themselves, such as Mufeed, Isfahaanee etc note. For more on this issue see Shias and the House (Idarah Tarjuman as-Sunnah: 1985) of ‘Ali by Ihsan Ilahi Zaheer.

Ahl ul-Bayt and the Shee’ah

Even though the average Shee’ah may think that her/his religion is about love of the family of the Prophet (sal allahu alaihi wa sallam), the Shee’ah scholars know exactly what the Ahl ul-Bayt really said about the Shee’ah. The Shee’ah scholars are also aware of the circumstances surrounding the original relationship between the Ahl ul-Bayt and the Shee’ah.

The reasons why the Ahl ul-Bayt refuted the Shee’ah is due to the Shee’ah causing the death of Husayn at Karbala by not helping him when he arrived there. Shee’ah scholars have quoted the evidence of this, which we look at further on.

Firstly, to document the history surrounding why the Ahl ul-Bayt disliked the Shee’ah is very significant. After the murder of ‘Alee ibn Abee Taalib (radi Allaahu ‘anhu) in 661 C.E. and his secret burial at Najaf, his son Hasan (radi Allaahu ‘anhu) was declared Khaleefah (Caliph) by the people of ‘Iraaq. Hasan however, abdicated in favour of Mu’aawiyah (radi Allaahu ‘anhu) for a guaranteed subsidy and pension, which he himself fixed, and then retired to Madeenah. When Hasan died (radi Allaahu ‘anhu) at forty five years of age in 669 C.E, his brother Husayn (radi Allaahu ‘anhu) became the focal point of the Shee’ah, or followers of ‘Alee, during the reign of Mu’aawiyah.

On Caliph Mu’aawiyah’s death (in 659 C.E.), the Shee’ah wanted Husayn not to acknowledge the Caliph’s son and successor, Yazeed and decided to respond to the urgent and reiterated appeals of the ‘Iraaqees to rebel against Yazeed. However, before doing anything, the cousin of Husayn, Muslim ibn ‘Aqeel went to ‘Iraaq to see how the matter was there. When Muslim ibn ‘Aqeel arrived in ‘Iraaq, the Shee’ah rushed to swear allegiance and fidelity to Husayn, so Muslim wrote to Husayn in Makkah to come and take charge of this movement.

Husayn set out for Koofah (Kufa), and was advised by his relatives not to go. Husayn left from Makkah where he was seeking refuge after not swearing allegiance to Yazeed. Meanwhile, ‘Ubaydullaah ibn Ziyaad, the appointed governor of ‘Iraaq, entered Koofah with little resistance from the Koofans and then executed Muslim ibn ‘Aqeel.

Not far from Koofah, Husayn learned of his cousin’s fate but continued toward Koofah until he and his followers which had dwindled to two hundred were surrounded by four thousand troops under the command of ‘Umar the son of the famous Sahaabee and general, Sa’d ibn Abee Waqqas.

At Karbalaa, about twenty five miles north-west of Koofah, upon their refusal to surrender they were massacred. The Prophet’s grandson Husayn (radi Allaahu ‘anhu) fell dead on the tenth day of the month of Muharram (680 C.E.) and his head was severed and sent to the Caliph Yazeed in Damascus. Caliph Yazeed deplored this horrible end which he had neither desired not ordered. His instructions had been to secure Husayn and to prevent Husayn from prolonging a dangerous agitation.

The passion factor of martyrdom took on a major role amongst the Shee’ah. Their anguish due to their own betrayal of Husayn and leaving him to the slaughter of four thousand men led to them annually observing the first ten days of Muharram as days of lamentation. They even developed a passion play called Ta’ziyah about the struggling and suffering of Husayn. This play is enacted in two parts, one called Aashoora (the tenth day) in Kaathimayn (close to Baghdad) in memory of the battle and the other forty days after the tenth in Karbalaa entitled “Return of the head.”

These plays even involve men who will ‘act’ as Husayn, the grandson of the Messenger of Allaah! They also have pictures of Husayn and even pictures of the Messenger of Allaah!

The days of penance and lamentation in ‘Iraaq, ‘Iraan and elsewhere, include street processions and self beatings. Also Shee’ah spectators and participants will participate in cutting themselves with knives, hitting themselves with truncheons and chains.\(^{44}\) Such practices demonstrate how deviation and innovation crept into the Shee’ah religion and removing it further away from Islaam. These practices were not taught by Muhammad (sallallaahu alayhi wassallam) and are not what the Qur’aan and Sunnah calls to.

But how did the family of the Prophet regard these events and what were their thoughts on those Shee’ah who betrayed them and fled when the going got tough?

Hasan bin ‘Alee (radi Allaahu ‘anhu) said, “By Allaah, I consider Mu’aawiyah better than these people who call themselves my group. They tried to kill me and they seize my goods. I know Koofah and their trial…they lack loyalty as well as the capacity to cling to their words and deeds…they are the dissenters.”45 Husayn bin ‘Alee (radi Allaahu ‘anhu) had addressed the Shee’ah saying: “Oh Shith bin Rabee’, oh Hijar bin Akhbar, oh Qays bin Ash’ath and oh Yazeed bin Hareetha46 did you not tell me that the fruit is ripe, the gardens are lush green and that I should come to my army in combat ready form.”47

45 at-Tabrissi, al-Ihtijaaj, p.45
46 These characters all belonged to the Shee’ah who claimed to support Husayn.
A spokesman for Husayn named Hoor ibn Yazeed at-Tameemee addressed the people on the day of Husayn’s death in Karbalaa, in the presence of Husayn, before he was killed, saying: “Oh residents of Koofah! Habar and A’bar may curse you. You invited this pious man that he should come to you and you will obey him. You thought that they would spare him and kill you in his place, so you turned his enemies and you wanted to kill him. You held him back, shut him up, encircled him from all sides and restricted his movements.”

Husayn said: “Oh people of Koofah, may you be damned, may you be ruined. You called me to help you when you were weak and we came running to help you. Then you lifted your swords against us and you became the supporters of your enemies against us. You broke the pledge...you broke the promise out of stupidity and ignorance...you sided with those who have discarded

The \textit{Shee’ah} historian and scholar Mufeed reports that: “Afterwards Husayn raised his hands and prayed “Oh Allaah, if you keep them alive for sometime create rift between them and never be pleased with their elders and guardians because they left us totally stranded, turned against us and killed us”.”\textsuperscript{50}

‘Alee bin Husayn (Zayn al-‘Aabideen) stated: “Our Shee’ah will also love us and speak about us, like how the Jews had spoken about ‘Uzayr and the Christians about ‘Eesaa ibn Maryam. Neither they (the Shee’ah) are related to us any more, nor are we related to them.”\textsuperscript{51}

Moosaa ibn Ja’far stated: “My Shee’ah posses one mark of distinction. When I tested them I found them apostates, when I tried them I found not one sincere one in a thousand of the Shee’ah. A long time has passed that they have been reclining against the cushions and they still insist that they are the Shee’ah of ‘Alee.”\textsuperscript{52}

There are many more statements like this from the \textit{Ahl ul-Bayt}, for more of such quotes see: \textit{Shias and the House of Ali} (pp.410-412) by Ihsaan Ilahi Zaheer.

These are the \textit{Ahl ul-Bayt} and their own views recorded in the concealed books of the Shee’ah scholars who claim to be the real lovers of the \textit{Ahl ul-Bayt} and Islaam.

\textbf{The Ahl ul-Bayt Called to the Qur’aan and Sunnah}

The \textit{Ahl ul-Bayt}, being pious and righteous people, never issued any statement or performed any deed in violation of the Qur’aan, \textit{Sunnah} and the understandings of the \textit{Salaf}. The advice they gave to people was that they should lead their lives in accordance and in light of the Qur’aan and \textit{Sunnah}. They exhorted people to act upon the divine injunctions expressed in the Qur’aan when Allaah, \textit{Most High}, says:

\begin{flushright}
\textsuperscript{52} \textit{ar-Rautha min al-Kaafee}, Vol. 8, p.228
\end{flushright}
Say: (Muhammad): “If you should love Allaah, then follow me, Allaah will love you and forgive you of your sins. And Allaah is Forgiving and Merciful”

{Soorah ‘Aali-Imraan (3): 31}

If you disagree over something refer to Allaah and the Messenger, if you believe in Allaah and the Last Day. That is the best (way) and the best result

{Soorah Nisaa (4): 59}

Whoever obeys the Messenger has obeyed Allaah, and those who turn away – We have not sent you (Muhammad) over them as a guardian

{Soorah Nisaa (4): 80}

Obey the Messenger, so that you will be shown mercy

{Soorah Noor (24): 56}
Certainly in the Messenger of Allaah you have an excellent example for anyone whose hope is Allaah and the Last Day and whoever remembers Allaah often

{Soorah al-Ahzab (33): 21}

Shee’ah sources also reveal that ‘Alee ibn Abee Taalib stated in a letter to the residents of Basrah as follows: “From Aameer ul-Mu’mineen…the servant of Allaah to every Muslim and believer to whom this letter is read out, peace on each of you…if you stick to your pledge at my hand, if you accept my advice and obey me, I shall act among you according to the book and the Sunnah.”

Further Shee’ah sources record that ‘Alee quoted the Prophet’s saying: “No word is worthy without act, no word and act are worthy without motive and no word, act or motive is worthy if it is not consistent with the Sunnah of the Prophet.” Moreover, the one whom the Shee’ah label as the “sixth innocent Imaam” stated according to them: “Anything which is not in agreement with the Qur’aan and the Sunnah, is not reliable.” He is also reported to have remarked in another place: “Anyone who opposed the Book of Allaah and the Sunnah of Muhammad, has disbelieved in Islaam.”

53 Ath-Thaqafee, Kitaab ul-Gharat (Vol. 2) p. 403

Kaashee has reported from Ja’far ibn Baaqir that he said: “You should not believe in anything you hear about us unless it is in tune with the Qur’aan and Sunnah.”

Baaqir is also reported to have advised similar sentiments: “Whatever reaches you, whether it is what we have said or what others have said about us, you should reflect on it. Accept it if it is in line with the Qur’aan, but reject it if it violates the Qur’aan.”

Baaqir is also report to have said: “The Messenger of Allaah said, “whenever something reaches you, you should judge it in the light of the Book of Allaah and my Sunnah. Accept what agrees with the Book of Allaah and my Sunnah, and reject whatever does not agree with the Book of Allaah and my Sunnah”.”

Mut’ah – Temporary Marriages

If the doctrines of the Shee’ah are not enough to indicate that their religion is far from Islam, then maybe the Shee’ah concepts of ‘marriage’ will be. This section will show that the Shee’ah oppress women and use them as a kind of sex outlet for their desires when it suits, and sanction this under a religious guise.

‘Mut’ah’ is an Arabic word that means ‘enjoyment,’ the books of jurisprudence and hadeeth define ‘Mut’ah’ as a “temporary marriage contracted for a fixed period in return for compensation.”

The Shee’ah claim that Mut’ah was openly practiced during the time of the Prophet Muhammad (salallahu alahi wa sallam), but the second rightly guided Khaleefah, ‘Umar ibn al-

59 at-Tabrisee, ‘Abee Ja’far fee ‘An’wa is-Shaatee’ in al-Ihtijaaj, p.229
Khattaab was the one who forcefully prohibited the practice. Muslims do acknowledge that Mut’ah was a common practice in the pre-Islamic days and that the Prophet allowed it on two occasions, but only under strict and exceptional conditions.

The first instance was during the conquest of Khaybar and during the conquest of Makkah, fearing that those new Muslims whose faith was not strong yet, might commit adultery during the conquests. Thus, Muslims accept these hadiths adding that these instances happened before all of the revelations of the Qur’aan were revealed and the religion completed. Dr Ahmad ‘Abdullaah Salaamah has also noted that: “Historians and commentators on the Qur’aan and the hadith agree that Islaam eradicated most social evils in a gradual way. It is well known that practices such as gambling, the drinking of alcohol and the eating of pork and blood, were common during the early days but were gradually prohibited. Likewise, it seems probable that Mut’ah was first forbidden to those at Khaybar in the year 7 A.H. and then completely prohibited to all upon the conquest of Makkah in 8 A.H.”⁶¹

According to the Muslim scholar al-Bayhaqee, Ja’far as-Saadiq, whom the She’sah regard as the “sixth Imaam,” described Mut’ah as fornication.⁶²

Another Muslim scholar, ad-Daarqutnee reports that ‘Alee ibn Abee Taalib (radi Allaahu ‘anhu) stated that Mut’ah was abrogated when the Qur’aanic verses about marriage, divorce, iddah and inheritance were revealed.⁶³

Additionally there are four ahadeeth in Saeheeh ul-Bukhaaree under the title ‘The Prophet Finally Forbade Mut’ah.’ Three of these hadeeth relate to the incidents of Mut’ah during the early period of Islaam. In the fourth hadeeth, ‘Alee said to Ibn Abbaas that the Messenger of Allaah forbade Mut’ah.

⁶³ Mut’ah – Sunni and Shia Perspectives on Marriage, p.11
As previously mentioned, the She’ah claim that it was ‘Umar ibn al-Khattaab who forbade Mut’ah. In fact, Muslims do acknowledge that ‘Umar declared again Mut’ah to be illegal (after the initial prohibitions from the Prophet) but the ruling was not from ‘Umar, rather he was following the Prophet’s ruling.

‘Alee himself is said to have the book Nahj ul-Balaaghah, a voluminous work attributed to him, wherein he presented various aspects of Islaam and the Muslim state. However, not a single word in favour of Mut’ah is mentioned in it. Had ‘Umar been wrong, nothing would have prevented ‘Alee from condemning it in his writings. The fact of the mater is that ever since the Prophet’s death (sallallaahu alayhi wasallam) there has been a consensus among the Muslims about the illegality of Mut’ah. Nevertheless, the She’ah bring many fabricated traditions in favour of the practice in their own books which they regard as authentic. Yet these concepts have to be analysed fairly in order to determine if Mut’ah promotes chastity, as desired by Allaah, or if it instead leads to the use an abuse of women through religious prostitution, debauchery and the following of one’s desires.

For example, the Shee’ah books try to present Mut’ah as a pious and religious act. For example:

1. Abaan ibn Tulugh related that he said to Imaam Ja’far as-Saaidq, “Often during my travels I come across a very beautiful woman and I am not sure if she has a husband or if she is an adultress or if she is one of dubious character.” The Imaam responded, “*Why should you worry about all of these things? Your duty is to believe what she says, and if she says that she has no husband then you should engage in Mut’ah with her.*”

2. Zanaarah said, “*I asked the Imaam (i.e. Ja’far as-Saadiq) with how many girls can one do Mut’ah...*"

65 al-Kulaynee, Furoo’ al-Kaafee, Vol. 2, p196 – This is considered by the Shee’ah to be the most famous and original collection of Shee’ah hadeeth dealing with the furoo’ (details) of Shee’ah beliefs and practices. Also Aboo Ja’far at-Toosee (died 460A.H.) in Tadheeb ul-Ahkaam (Tehraan: Daar Kutub Islamiyyah) p. 187.
with.” He replied, “With as many as you like, they are like hired girls.”

3. If a man contracts Mut’ah once in his lifetime, Allaah will grant him paradise.

4. The one who contracts Mut’ah is saved from Shirk (this last narration is clearly last as the Shee’ah are not saved from the Shirk of making their Imaams partners with Allaah!)

5. “One who engages in Mut’ah once in his lifetime reaches the status of Imaam al-Husayn. One who engages in it twice becomes equal in status to Imaam al-Hasan. The one who performs it three times reaches the position of Imaam ‘Alee. And he who practices it four times acquires the level and position (equal to that) of the Prophet Muhammad.”

This is the extremism and false nature of the Shee’ah scholars wherein they attribute clear lies about religion. The extremity 67 Both of these quotes are from: Kashaanee in Tafseer Minhaj us-Saadiqeen (Tehraan: Daar Kutub Islamiyyah, 1396 A.H.), p. 356-357. This is one of the most famous and respected Shee’ah commentaries on the Qur’aan.

68 ibid. p.356
should be quite clear to the reader of the kind of people who are being questioned.

There is no evidence for such nonsense, clear fabrications and so is it any wonder that we find the Ahl ul-Bayt condemning the Shee’ah in the ways they did. The reader can decide if this is Islaam or not.

Dr. Ahmad Abdullah Salaamah has also noted that the Shee’ah books of jurisprudence carry separate chapters entitled “Taarat ul-Furooj.” Which can be translated as “The Loaning of Vaginas.” Under this heading, Shee’ah Imaams have discussed the various conditions under which a woman can be temporarily given to another person. The books give details as to how a woman can be loaned only for the pleasure of seeing her naked body, enjoying her kisses or for the pleasure of having sexual intercourse with her.69

Most of these citations are from works which the Shee’ah consider the ‘most authentic.’ For example, Tafseer Minhaj us-

69 Mut’ah – The Sunni and Shia Perspectives on Marriage, p.16
Saadiqeen is one of the earliest Shee‘ah commentaries on the Qur’aan and Furoo’ al-Kaafee is the most fundamental and original source of Shee‘ah traditions. Thus, the reader must be fair and decide if this knowledge is from the Qur’aan.

Lastly, would this kind of oppression and vain usage of women for one’s impassioned desires establish a society based on piety, righteousness and chastity? Or rather would it open the door to decrepit sexual desires and debauchery with women who “have the same status as hired girls?”

Islaam is clear, as in the light of the Prophetic Sunnah, it abandons Mut‘ah which is regarded as fornication and adultery. Thus Dr. Salaamah has noted that in India during the epoch of the British, prostitution was legalised and many of the women that were working in the trade were Shee‘ah women. Maybe these women were tricked into thinking that they were actually doing a pious action!? Furthermore, many people from the Indo-Pakistaan sub-continent testify that a number of Muslim heads of state in undivided India became Shee‘ah just to satisfy their lusts!
If an Islamic state is established based upon Shee’ah doctrines or if the Shee’ah were allowed to practice their religious beliefs, who would administer the ‘religious duty’ of supplying young girls with which one could engage in Mut’ah? Would Shee’ah elders issue religious fatwas or licences to allow virtuous women to take up the profession of Mut’ah on a full time basis.? Or would devout Shee’ah allow their own wives, mothers, sisters and daughters to participate in the “virtues of Mut’ah” in their free time?\(^70\)

\(^70\) ibid. p.20 – It should also be noted here that when the Shee’ah state was established by al-Khomaynee in the 1978 ‘revolution,’ many modernist Muslim organisations who were pursuing their own interests and desires rushed to liase with the Shee’ah ‘Mullahs.’ Thus, misguided organisations such as Ikhwaan ul-Muslimeen (Muslim Brotherhood) went to ‘Iraan to give their support. Also Hizb ut-Tahreer, who allow Shee’ahs into their hizb, even asked al-Khomaynee the Shee’ah to set up their model of an Islamic state! (See: Al-Khilafah Magazine; Number 18; Friday 2\(^{nd}\) January/1410 A.H.).
Let’s conclude with a quote from al-Khomaynee: “It is permissible to engage in Mut’ah with a fornicator woman but with a disliking in (one’s) heart, especially if she is a well known and professional fornicator. When a person contracts Mut’ah with her, he should advise her to quit the profession of fornication.”

In other words a man should first commit Zinaa with a whore and then after the Zinaa advise her to stop making Zinaa!? Could this really be Islaam? Isn’t it clear what Islaam is? At least in Islaam you just admit that it’s a sin and make Tawbah and that you were weak in Eemaan! But to change Islaam in order to fit into man’s own desires and caprices is to allow Shaytaan to confuse humanity.

Conclusion

The conclusions for the noble reader are on the following issues:
1. The polytheism of the Shee’ah religion and the taking of Imaams as demi-gods.
2. The Shee’ah position on the Sahaabah which regards them as being disbelievers except for seven at the most, out of ten thousand!
3. The fact that the Abl ul-Bayt did not call to this kind of understanding, and in fact the Abl ul-Bayt refuted the Shee’ah.
4. The Shee’ah rejection of the Sunnah even though the Abl ul-Bayt adhered to it and asked people to adhere to it.
5. Mut’ah, which speaks for itself.
6. The Jewish origins of many Shee’ah practices, this is particularly evident with their Imaam system which many scholars have drawn parallels with Jewish Rabbinical systems. This has been noted by Ibn Taymiyyah, Ibn ‘Abdur-Rabbihee, the great Arabic linguist of Andalus (d. 328 A.H./939 C.E.), ‘Abdul-‘Azeez Sachendina and

9. The historical development of even more heretical religions emerging out from the \textit{Shee’ah}.

10. The fact that the consensus of \textit{Shee’ah} scholars hold that the Qur’aan has been changed. A famous and respected \textit{Sheee’ee} scholar from Najaf, Mirza Husayn bin Muhammad at-Tabarsee in 1865 C.E. wrote the book \textit{Fasl al-Khitaab fee Ithbaat Tahreef Kitaab Rabb al-Arbaab/A Decisive Statement Concerning Proof of the Alteration of the Lord of Lord’s Book (the Qur’aan)}. When this book was discovered by the Christian missionaries and the Western Orientalists they were delighted to have found a work that could aid their vain attempts to discredit the people, there will be no unjust rulers, as was the case with the Children of Israel.” (\textit{Just Ruler}, p.208)
Unravelling the Myths About the Shee’ah

Islaam. In the book, at-Tabarsee compiled hundreds of texts written by Shee’ee scholars in different ages alleging that the Qur’aan is incomplete.⁷⁶

11. The Shee’ee approval of lying and deception, called Taqiyyah. This is a Shee’ee fraud thereby they can conceal their religion from Muslims so as to trick them. Khomaynee advised Shee’ah to do this and it can also be found in the works of other Shee’ee scholars.⁷⁷ It is clear however that dishonesty, cheating and chicanery are not praised in the Qur’aan, yet the Shee’ah have sought to allow it?! Most average people who are born into the Shee’ah faith are not aware of this aspect of the Shee’ah way of life as they quite openly say that they are Shee’ah, unaware of the machinations of those who are deemed as knowledgeable about the Shee’ah religion.

As stated in the beginning of this study of the Shee’ah belief system, this work should not be seen as an empty simplistic attack or vilification on individuals that are merely sincerely searching for some truth and clarity about the Shee’ah beliefs.

This work has attempted not to be biased at all here and sources have thus been quoted that Shee’ah scholars and learned regard as the most authoritative texts. We are not interested in creating hatred, as exhibited by many ignorant ‘Sunni’ Muslims. It is hoped however, that some facts about the Shee’ah that are hidden from the masses of people can be presented.

There are many extremist Shee’ah websites that are attempting to discredit the Qur’aan, Sunnah and way of the early Muslims (Salaf us-Saalih), and are not concerned with dealing with the very important issues that have been highlighted in this study.
Many of these websites, such as the ‘Answering Ansar’ website for example, use many obscure and unknown Shee’ee scholars of India as the basis of their arguments and thus render their arguments quite weak.

Websites such as Answering Ansar and the ‘al-Islam’ website serve as an excellent example of how many extremist Shee’ah are ignorant of their own source texts and books, unaware of the classical writings of Shee’ah scholars of ‘Iraan and ‘Iraaq. The reasons for this denial of the content of the Shee’ah texts can be either due to ignorance or, as we now know about the Shee’ah, the fraud known as ‘Taqiyah’ (deception, lying and chicanery).

As for the likes of Ja’fer Subhani, Hamid Algar and other Shee’ah that have feebly attempted to refute the Da’wah to the Qur’aan, Sunnah and way of the Salaf us-Saalih, which they call “Wahhabism,” then the basis of their arguments are indeed very weak and lack concise evidences.
